

This happens intermittently to Macs in our department, ranging from IIsi's to a Quadra 950.

I can end the slowdown immediately by unplugging the Ethernet cable from the Mac. It seems that something on the network puts out these packet storms every few days. These storms have the effect of making our Macs slow down to a crawl.

David Gutierrez
drg@biomath.mda.uth.tmc.edu