

Well, it seems the "National Sales Tax" has gotten its very own CNN news LOGO!

Cool. That means we'll be seeing it often.

Man, I sure am GLAD that I quit working ( or taking this seriously ) in 1990. If I kept busting my ass, watching time go by, being frustrated, I'd be pretty DAMN MAD by now.

YEAH! Free HEALTH CARE! Oh, yeeaaaahhhh!

heh heh

" Bill makes me feel like DANCING! "

MORE AMAZING PREDICTIONS FROM THE INCREDIBLE BROMEISTER!

---

We take you back to Febrary 20th, when the INCREDIBLE BROMEISTER PREDICTED:

- " $1,000 per middle class taxpayer in NEW TAXES "

" A NATIONAL SALES TAX "

Now, for more AAMMMAAAZZZZIINNNNGGGG Predictions!

- i) The NST will be raised from 3% to 5% by 1996.
- Ooops. They ALREADY DID it.
- Okay, then. The NST will be raised from 5% to 7% by 1996.
- ii) Unemployment will rise!
- iii) Tax revenues will decline. Deficit will increase!
- We'll get another DEFICIT REDUCTION PACKAGE by 1997!
- Everyone will DANCE AND SING!

Yup. I'm gonna <glancing at watch> bail out of here at 1 PM, amble on down to the lake. Hang out. Sit in the sun and take it EASY! :) Yeah!

I just wish I had the e-mail address of total gumby who was saying that " Clinton didn't propose a NST ".

To paraphrase Hilary Clinton - " I will not raise taxes on the middle class to pay for my programs "
